

American Prisoners Shot Down By Nazis, Survivors Reveal

By HAL BOYLE

An AMERICAN FRONTLINE CLEARING STATION, Belgium, Dec. 17—(Delayed)—(P)—Weeping with rage, a handful of doughboy survivors described today how a German tank force ruthlessly poured machine gun fire into a group of about 150 Americans who had been disarmed and herded into a field in the opening hours of the present Nazi counter-offensive.

"We had to lie there and listen to German non-coms kill with pistols every one of our wounded men who groaned or tried to move," said T-5 William B. Summers of Glenville, W. Va., who escaped by playing dead.

The Americans were members of an artillery observation battalion ambushed and trapped at a road fork by a German armored column of Tiger tanks, whose heavy guns quickly shot up the two dozen American trucks and lightly-armored vehicles.

There were no heavy weapons in the American column and the entire observation unit had to surrender.

"They had at least 15 to 20 tanks. They disarmed us and then searched us for wristwatches and anything else they wanted," Summers said.

"I guess we were lined up along that road for a full hour. Then they stood us all together in an open field. I thought something was wrong. As we were standing there one German soldier moving past in a tank column less than 50 yards away pulled out pistol and emptied it on our fellows."

A grimy soldier sitting in the little room here with Summers ran his hands through matted hair and broke into sobs. There were tears in Summers' eyes as he went on:

"Then they opened up on us from their armored cars with machineguns. We hadn't tried to run away or anything. We were

CRUCIAL BATTLE NOW RAGING IN BELGIUM

Meandering
Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I believe about the most unusual incident connected with the big snowstorm last week, occurred on the Percie Kennel farm near Bloomingburg.

It seems that Percie had four fields cornering at one place, and the snow had drifted so high and later was frozen so hard that there was danger of his hogs in one field simply walking over the fences into the other three fields.

It was necessary to cut a channel through the snow to "fence" in the porkers.

You folks who find it difficult to buy a pack of cigarettes here at the usual prices, may gain a little consolation—or biting irritation—from the fact that Fayette County soldiers in Belgium have written that American cigarettes can be purchased at comparatively few places, and that the cafes in Belgium are charging $2 per pack for leading brands.

From other areas reports indicate that when the men in the armed forces buy cigarettes they are required to pay enormous prices for them.

You see there are a lot of things to be thankful for, and the fact that cigarettes are obtainable here at no increase in price, even though they are not abundant, is one of the things.

Washington C. H. residents who did a lot of complaining about the snow on the sidewalks and streets, this week, will be interested in some of the experiences of the farm folks in the community.

In the first place most of them were literally snowbound, due to the roads being blocked, as well as huge drifts piled about their premises.

For example, take Lawrence Allen, prominent farmer residing on Route 70 about 4 1/2 miles northwest of Jeffersonville. He found it necessary to shovel a road 40 feet through a five-foot drift to reach his feedlot, and snowdrifts had completely covered some of his hog boxes containing valuable hogs.

Many hours of wear and shoveling was necessary to free the hog boxes from the drifts so that the animals, completely covered up, could be cared for.

More shoveling had to be done about the premises before the usual farm chores could be attended to. Gates to feed lots and fields were blocked.

On top of all of this it was impossible to use the nearby highway for nearly 48 hours, so you see we city folks had very little to contend with compared with our friends on the farm.

Montgomery Ward Troubles Back in Capital Spotlight As Holiday Nears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(P)—This is the week Congress will go home for Christmas, if the boys are to get there before the turkey is all gone.

A few matters such as Senate action on six state department appointments still stand in the way.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee said yesterday he will hold the Senate in session until it votes on the appointments "if it takes all winter."

He thinks a vote will be taken by mid-week.

Principal other business up to Congress before a holiday adjournment: A $500,000,000 rivers and harbors bill, and a deficiency and appropriation measure.

No Objection Secretary of State Stettinius announced today the United States government would have no objection to an agreement "on the future frontiers of Poland" if the United Nations concerned agreed upon them.

Stettinius read a three-point statement on the Polish question to a news conference. It followed Prime Minister Churchill's announcement in the House of Commons Friday that Britain agreed that the eastern third of Poland should be turned over to Russia.

Stettinius said if it had been the U. S. government's "consistently held policy that questions relating to boundaries should be kept in abeyance until the termination of hostilities."

He recalled, however, an earlier statement by former Secretary of State Hull that some questions might be settled in the meantime by "friendly conference and agreement."

Stettinius' statement implied the United States would approve the changed Polish boundaries provided the Polish government accepted the Curzon line as its eastern border. Inferentially, it put the next step up to the Polish government in exile in London.

Montgomery Ward Case The government and Montgomery Ward appeared today to be preparing the country for a new and possibly more extensive presidential seizure.

With a midnight deadline for company compliance with War Labor Board directives in seven cities less than 12 hours away, WLB Chairman William H. Davis appealed anew to the concern, saying continued "defiance of the government could prolong the war."

The mail order firm in newspaper advertisements addressed to "all Montgomery Ward people" listed these points:

1. The reason given for a strike in four Detroit Ward stores to that the company has refused to comply with an order that "seeks to impose upon Wards a closed shop."

2. The District of Columbia Appeals Court has held that WLB orders are advisory only and that no one has any legal duty to obey. "The supreme court has refused to alter this decision."

3. Wards has refused to agree to any form of closed shop or compulsory union membership because the closed shop "violates the American principles of liberty and freedom."

Finale in Lupe's Drama Yet To Come

THE SWANK AND VOLUPTUOUS bedroom in Lupe Velez' Beverly Hills, Cal., home, was where the Mexican screen star's body was found after she had taken an overdose of sleeping powder. The temperamental star left a note on the bed where she lay, addressed to "Harold" (Harold Ramond with whom her engagement had been broken last week). The note explained to Ramond that she was expecting a baby.

Sister of Mexican Movie Actress Who Suicided in Luxurious Home Says She Will Have 'Great Deal To Make Public' After Talk With Mother

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 18—(P)—Funeral plans for Lupe Velez, Mexican actress who killed herself last Thursday, today awaited arrival of her mother from Mexico.

In Mexico City, friends said the mother, Mrs. Josefina Velez De Villalobos, hoped to take her daughter's body back to Mexico.

The actress' sister, Mrs. J. Gordon Anderson, arrived with her soldier husband from San Antonio, Tex. She refused to answer questions until she had talked with her mother but added, "At that time I will have a great deal to make public."

At a press conference Saturday night, Harold Ramond, 28-year-old French actor who was named in the actress' death note as the father of her unborn child, said the misunderstanding between him and Lupe was due to his faulty knowledge of English.

He declared when he found out about her engagement, he proposed they announce their marriage as already having taken place.

"I went to Lupe and told her we could announce a 'fake marriage,' he said, "but it was not wise for me to use that word, and I feel she misunderstood me. She apparently did not understand that we could go ahead with a fully legal ceremony at a later date."

YANK OUTFIT SHOOTS WAY OUT OF BATTLE IN SIEGFRIED LINE

By EDWARD R. BALL

DILLINGEN, Germany, Dec. 17. —(Delayed)—(P)—From ice-crusted foxholes, a column of Doughboys has written the U. S. 90th Division's most stirring episode since D-Day.

For ten days and nights they fought, cut off most of the time from supplies and reinforcements. For five days each lived on a small chocolate bar daily. They were counterattacked 30 times—a record for so narrow a sector on the U. S. Third Army front.

When their own ammunition ran low, they "borrowed" from the enemy and went on killing and wounding Germans at an amazing rate.

This was accomplished by men of Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet's Texas-Oklahoma division fighting on the Germans' own terms in one of the Siegfried line's thickest pillbox belts.

"That place up there is carpeted with dead Krauts," said Maj. William Dupuy of Sioux Falls, S. D., who commands the 357th Infantry's First Battalion. "Even our cooks joined the party and disposed of four pillboxes," he added. "Two days after crossing the

MORE WAR PRISONER LABOR USE IS URGED

Manpower Shortage Areas Need Workers, Reason

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—(P)—Wider use of prisoners of war in areas of acute manpower shortage was urged today by Robert C. Goodwin, regional director of the war manpower commission.

In letters to state WMC heads in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, Goodwin recommended that area directors ask their labor-management committees immediately to study possibilities of making fuller use of prisoners.

More than 5,000 prisoners are employed in the region at present and 300 are awaiting assignment to jobs, the WMC head reported. He said additional prisoners could be obtained through the War Department.

"Under the terms of the Geneva Convention, war prisoners can be used in various types of work," Goodwin explained. "The enemy is using American prisoners and we should put our prisoners to work wherever possible in order to shorten the war."

Santa Gets 1-Day Pass in Germany

Bullet Hits Doughboy and Lodges at Very Appropriate Verse in Bible in His Pocket

By HAL BOYLE
WITH THE FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, Dec. 11—(Delayed)—(P)—Capt. Edward F. Steiner of New Orleans, La., is probably the only American officer who ever gave a military pass to Santa Claus.

In Germany, St. Nick's Day is December 5, and one German boy 4 1/2 years old was worried that the old Saint would be arrested for being out after dark.

He was so worried he made a personal call on the military government office in a small German village and asked for an interview with the commander.

"I know civilians can't be out after dark and St. Nicholas is a civilian," the little boy said. "But I don't want him to get arrested."

Steiner set his mind at ease: "We will give St. Nicholas a one-night pass," he promised.

'No Cause for Alarm', Reassurance from Allied Headquarters As Warplanes Swarm in To Hit German Forces But Details of Fighting Not Disclosed—Reds Turn Big Guns on Budapest in Drive Through Balkans

By MILTON BESSER

(By the Associated Press)

American First Army troops slugged back today at advancing German armored and infantry columns in Luxembourg and Belgium in a battle that may rank as one of the most decisive in the European war.

Allied headquarters disclosed Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops were answering the challenge of Nazi Field Marshal Karl Gerd Von Rundstedt in kind, but clamped down on releasing detailed information about the fighting raging along an 80-mile front extending from the Manschau area 16 miles below Aachen to the southern tip of the Luxembourg border.

The extremely fluid situation at the front was the reason advanced for the blackout on de American countersteps.

Allied military authorities directing the battle, possibly the tails of German advances and final German effort to escape total defeat, decided to withhold specific information on the exact places where the Germans were hammering through the American

PARACHUTED GIFT IS BEING PROBED

Locket, Camera, Book, Land In Soldier's Wife's Yard

DETROIT, Dec. 18—(P)—A seven-foot nylon parachute with a package containing a camera, hand-made locket, two prayer books and a note was found in a yard Sunday.

One of the prayer books bore an inscription identifying it as the property of Pfc. Wesley De Quin.

Police located his wife, Mrs. Barbara De Quin, and she identified it as the property of her husband, who has been overseas for over a year.

The note read: "Hi Sweetheart, Honey, I'm sorry but this will have to do for a part of your Christmas present. I love you, Jim."

Mrs. De Quin told police "Jim" was her husband's nickname. The parachute, of a type used for dropping supplies to troops, landed about six miles from the De Quin home. The army is investigating.

RENT CONTROL QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

Meeting at Rent Office Will Be Tuesday at 7:30 P. M.; Giles Will Speak

Anybody have any questions about rent control? If so, they will be answered Tuesday at 7:30 P. M. Albert G. Giles, chief district rent attorney, will speak at a meeting of attorneys, real estate brokers, bankers, justices of the peace and any other interested persons at the rent control office at the nation board Tuesday night. The newly set up rent control area here has been functioning since December 1, but at that time there may be a few points which are not clear. For that reason, Giles will explain in detail the maximum rent regulations and how it affects rental units here. He also will answer any questions which may be asked concerning evictions and adjustments.

Rent Refunds
Giles said Monday that some landlords refunded part of the December rent after they registered and found they had been charging more than the maximum legal rent.

Registrations are open until January 15 and so far about 1,000 landlords have registered. The 1,000 registrations now being processed are estimated at one-third of the expected registration.

JAP FACTORIES BLASTED AS BLOODY FIGHTING IN PHILIPPINES CONTINUES

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent with the 21st Bomber Command, said after the planes took off today, Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., revealed that photos of last Friday's Nagoya raid showed the airplane factory, one of Japan's largest, had been damaged more than previously supposed. He said four large assembly buildings and 22 smaller structures in the factory area were destroyed or damaged. Today's raiders, Haugland wrote, had reports of clear weather ahead, but also faced the prospect of heavier ack-ack fire. Japanese headquarters admitted the Nagoya raid by "approximately 70 B29s," and as usual said, "We suffered only slight damage."

The Nagoya raid was announced by the War Department in Washington which also disclosed a raid against Hankow, China, the first by B29s evidently operating from bases in India.

Airfields were being whipped into shape today on the southern end of Mindoro Island, securely in American hands. Yank infantrymen were 11 miles from the beachhead they established Friday.

Only scant resistance was encountered, a spokesman reported. The Americans had command of strategic high ground and set up a wide defense six miles beyond San Jose.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his Monday communique "our hold on the southern part of the island is now secure."

American and Australian construction engineers on Mindoro were readying captured airstrips for day and night fighter planes. These airfields are only 150 miles from Manila—a flight of less than a half hour.

Tremendous carrier plane strikes against the Manila area gave strong support to the Mindoro advance.

Airmen of Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carrier force off the Philippines in three days of strikes raised to 435 their toll of enemy planes put out of action.

These, added to the 146 destroyed or damaged by fliers covering the Mindoro landings, made a four-day total of 581 planes.

Maj. Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., America's top ace, shot down his 39th enemy plane Friday over Negros Island.

Japanese air activity was negligible except for a raid on Moroto Island, southeast of the Philip-

DOWNTOWN LOT PURCHASED BY HOTEL COMPANY

Washington Hotel Now Owns Former Standard Oil Company Property

The Standard Oil Company has sold its former location at the corner of Fayette and Market streets to Hotel Washington, Inc.

The lot faces about 55 feet on Fayette Street and has a frontage of 82 feet on Market Street. This corner adjoins the former headquarters of the Washington News Publishing Company.

Hotel Washington officials said they had no immediate plans for the property, and that it probably would be available for lease or rent.

Long known as one of the busiest corners in the downtown business district, it is presumed the Standard Oil Company disposed of this property in line with the trend of major oil companies to feature large super stations. It makes available for business development a location which has been unavailable for over two decades.

The service station of the Standard Oil Co. formerly occupying the property, was abandoned and dismantled when gas rationing started and the company devoted its attention to larger stations.

It was formerly the Os McClellan property and occupied by a frame structure, for years used as a feed store, and later for a mayor's office and other purposes.

It was led by Corp. Stanley Sheddlock, Northampton, Mass. Later we made contact with a company commanded by Capt. B. F. Adams, of Little Rock, Ark., but they were in no better shape than we were."

A one-man round-up was carried out by Pfc. Kenneth Felger of Van Wert, O. His exploit was related by Capt. McLean, who said:

"Felger worked his way to the top of a German pillbox and threw a hand grenade into an opening. Five Germans inside yelled 'Kamerad.' Felger went inside. Germans up the line sent a couple of men down to investigate why this pillbox was not firing. Felger invited them in and disarmed them.

"They sent five more investigators and finally caught on to what was happening," McLean continued. "Without knowing the general picture, Felger ushered his prisoners—two officers, two sergeants and 18 enlisted men to the river and took them across."

ban will not mean a sudden return of population, adding further strain to war-taxed housing conditions. The defense command said it expects the War Relocation Authority to see that the process is gradual.

In Boise, Idaho's Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen voiced hearty accord with the revocation order. Idaho is the site of the Minidoka Relocation Center, which at one time housed 10,000 Japanese Americans.

"Having proved themselves loyal American citizens, these people should be given every opportunity to return to their homes," Gov. Bottolfsen said.

Yoshito Fujii, chairman of the Minidoka Community Council, told a Seattle Post-Intelligencer representative by phone that the 7,500 Minidoka internees "have been waiting for this day. We long to return to our homes, our farms, our businesses. We feel that we are good Americans."

At Kent, Wash., Benjamin Smith, president of the "Remember Pearl Harbor" League, declared the Japanese are still dangerous to the war effort, and added that his organization has pledged 500 persons not to sell, lease or rent farms, homes or stores to the returning evacuees. He said "further steps" might be taken.

The survivors lay in tense silence in the freezing mud for an hour before cautious glances showed all the Germans had moved away except one Tiger tank.

HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 17—

(Delayed)—(P)—After a trip in to the front lines under enemy fire, members of the touring House Military Committee said at a press conference today American newspapers had failed to give a complete picture of the rigors of the Italian campaign.

The Congressmen said this possibly was caused by a lack of comprehension of the importance of the Italian campaign back home.

Several asserted they believed the correspondents were trying to present a true picture.

"I think the story of the little men with wet feet and big men with wet feet has not been fully emphasized," Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.) said.

She added that she did not think the story of women in war had been too well told.

"I have seen too many pictures of pretty WACS with an air corps captain, as though the idea were to join the WACS to get a husband," Mrs. Luce asserted.

Rep. Charles H. Elston (R-Ohio): "I think the people are not getting all the news back home and the boys over there are not getting the news of home. I think something should be done to see they get more news. I don't think the fault lies with newspaper men and women. Somewhere there is a blue pencil. I would like to see some American newspaper issue editions in the war theaters."

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The savage German counter-offensive along the U. S. First Army front in the Rhineland bears the marks of being an effort to prevent an early American crossing of the Roer River at the key city of Duren, and so to postpone the dread day of reckoning with the Allies on the open plain of Cologne.

As a matter of fact there have been many signs recently that General Eisenhower himself was about ready to launch another major offensive, revolving about a thrust over the Roer. Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt has struck shrewdly to throw the Allied line off balance and delay this drive.

The desperate mood of the Germans in what may be their last great offensive in the west is shown by a dispatch from Belgium reporting that the Nazis massacred 150 disarmed American prisoners in one sector, and that Nazi non-coms were shooting wounded doughboys on the battlefield. So the true spirit of Hitlerian barbarism is on the move again.

The fact that the Germans have been using more air power than they have employed in Western Europe since D-Day is highly significant of the importance they attach to the crisis that has been developing rapidly on the banks of the Roer, which shields the Cologne plain from the west. They long have been so short of warplanes, oil and gasoline that the Luftwaffe is brought into play only in grave emergencies.

While actually there have been three battles proceeding along the water-logged, weather-plagued Allied front, the fierce conflict in the Aachen-Duren sector has remained the crucial one. This is, of course, the main gateway to the great Rhemish city of Cologne and so on into the Ruhr—heart of the Reich's war industries.

Duren, which stands mainly on the east bank of the Roer, is the anchor of the strong German defenses along that river. When this important rail and highway center falls to the Allies, it will mean that the German line has been turned and that they must make a quick retreat to positions nearer the Rhine, which is only about sixteen miles distant at this point.

The first American Army under General Hodges, and the Ninth under General Simpson on the north have kept driving for the strategic Roer in the face of as tough winter going as could be imagined. It's been an exceptionally hard grind—and costly in casualties. However, by persistence which often has taxed the endurance of men who have lived and fought in mud and water, they finally reached the river bank along a considerable stretch and, barring some upset, might have been expected to attempt a crossing before long.

Meanwhile, military observers have noted that the British and Canadian armies on the Allied northern wing were in position to launch a great flanking movement against the Germans as soon as Eisenhower had his men across the Roer at Duren in force. At the same time on the southern Allied front the American Seventh Army in the Alsace sector, and Patton's Third at the gateway to the important star industrial region, have been persistently advancing.

Thus the Germans have been under heavy pressure along most of their 450 mile front, with the certainty that Eisenhower was about set to launch a big offensive. So Von Rundstedt has countered to throw the Allies off balance, and he apparently is going all out in his effort to create a situation which will delay the Allied advance through the winter.

But he's fighting for more than delay, because Eisenhower has created a huge trap along the western Rhineland. The Nazi commander will be lucky if he doesn't lose the bulk of his armies in it. His present drive is calculated to lessen that danger.

NAZIS MOVING WAR PLANT
BERN, Switzerland, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Basler Arbeiter Zeitung said today the Germans are hastily dismantling Vienna's armament factories and transporting them to Straubing, Regensburg and Linz. The factories have been employing about 1,600,000 persons, the paper said.

SANTA GETS 1-DAY PASS IN GERMANY WHEN LITTLE BOY MAKES PLEA FOR HIM

Infantry Division was hit in the chest by a German bullet. It pierced his jacket and shirt. Then lodged in the Bible he carried in his breast pocket.

Pulling out the little book that had saved him, Martin found the bullet had penetrated to a page containing the twelfth verse of the fourth chapter of Galatians, reading:

"Brethren, I beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye; ye have not injured me at all."

German soldiers are being edged into patrol assignments now by promises of furloughs if they capture Americans.

Standing guard in the Siegfried Line one dark night recently, Pvt. Bonner Schulerburg, a Texas rifleman in the Second Infantry Division, heard footsteps. He called a challenge and a bullet zinged past him from the blackness. Bonner fired and heard someone fall and groan.

Other Yanks rushed up but the fight was over. They found a Nazi lieutenant shot through the stomach moaning on the ground while a German sergeant tried to give him first aid.

The sergeant explained that the lieutenant was his commanding officer and had planned a trip into the American lines to try to learn what had been happening to his patrols. The Nazi then explained:

"The lieutenant told me that if I came with him and we captured an American he would get me a furlough."

Both got what they came for. The lieutenant knows now what has been happening to his patrols, and the sergeant has his furlough—in the prisoner of war camp.

It wasn't a cheerful farewell that Pvt. George T. Chelton had with his Second Infantry Division buddies as he started a long trip from Germany to Channel View, Tex.

Going home wasn't the happy reward for this 23-year-old soldier it is for most men. The War Department ordered him home because he is the only surviving son in his family. His two brothers were killed on the western front.

The junior choir, made up entirely of children's voices, will sing six of the familiar Christmas carols, among them, "Angels We Have Heard on High," "There's a Song in the Air" and "Under the Stars." Mrs. J. Rankin Paul is directing the choir.

Besides carols and anthems sung by the adult choir, Miss Marion Osborn will sing "Gesu Bambino." Guest soloist will be Mrs. Bruce Steadman, the former Norma Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bates. Mrs. Steadman was a member of the choir until her marriage last July.

Special organ and piano music will be played by Mrs. Ralph Gage and Clarence Barger who also will accompany choir and solo numbers.

Won't Mix in Some Pot

The government of the United States is launched on a great experiment. It has undertaken to guarantee minimum living standards for all. It will endeavor to furnish jobs when needed, the social security system is to be expanded, farm prices are to be maintained by subsidies and an almost unlimited program of public works has been proposed. The experiment will cost untold billions, and will come on top of a war that promises to run the public debt up to three hundred billion dollars or more.

There is only one way in which this experiment can be carried through successfully, and that is by stimulating to the greatest possible extent the productivity and the initiative of the people. For, notwithstanding the clear propaganda of patronage dispensers that government grants are gifts, every dollar distributed by government must first be taken from the people in taxes on their earnings and their businesses.

Basic industries should be encouraged to progress and develop as private enterprises if for no other reason than that the efficiency of private management has made these industries a primary source of government revenue. Obviously the country cannot kill its taxpaying industries and have its taxes too.

A government spending program requiring maximum taxes and maximum production, cannot be mixed in the same pot with socialism.

Army Food

The War Food Administration has issued an order that all chickens in the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia region are to be reserved for the armed forces until a quota of 110,000,000 pounds has been met. State police are cooperating with agents of the WFA in stopping all chicken-carrying trucks which do not have authority for their trip from the WFA. All highways will be watched, and if necessary further checks will be made at poultry receiving points in the large cities.

All of these measures are being taken under authority of an executive order of two years ago, which directs that government agencies may take appropriate steps to insure equitable distribution of foods. The unfortunate circumstance is that it should be necessary to take them. It is true that there is an unusual demand for poultry because its purchase does not take meat points. But surely there are still plenty of meat and meat substitutes available. It shouldn't take the extra services of already overworked agents and police to insure that our men, fighting in sticky mud and driving snow, have good holiday meals.

Boost for Mail Man

Of all our public servants there are none more faithful and intelligent than the postmen, and none closer to people's homes and hearts. They are almost as steady as the sun itself in their appointed rounds. In war time they carry the secrets and almost the souls of our armies and our home fronts. They grieve with the forgotten ones and rejoice with those who have letters from overseas. They are very close to the heart of the nation and, if possible, even more loyal than usual.

Today's Horoscope

If today is your birthday you are strong-willed, self-confident and aggressive, apt to brush opposition aside, regardless of the feelings of others. Your emotions are absolutely under control, and it is hard to tell your true feelings about anything. A year of pleasant surprises and much successful activity lies ahead. Expedite business, court and marry, but avoid extravagance. Born on this date a child will be exceptionally clever, popular and highly successful in the chosen profession. A fortunate marriage is foreseen.

So what? The House and Senate committees at Washington have bills pending which would raise the pay of postal employees. Custodial workers getting $1,200 to $1,600 a year, and mail carriers and clerks getting $1,700 to $2,100 a year, would get $400 more. Inasmuch as they have not had a raise for 19 years, the additional $400 now reported favorably can hardly be called excessive. Public comment is favorable, and it would be pleasant all round to see them get their pay boost for a Christmas present.

It's All Greek

Greece is having a battle of the alphabets. As their full names are overwhelming long, the factions are commonly known by their initials. There is E.A.M., for instance, The National Liberation Front, a leftist group containing a good many Communists. Its military arm is E.L.A.S., or Greek People's Army of Liberation. On the other side of the fence is E.D.E.S., or Greek National Democratic Army, not so democratic as its name sounds, for it leans decidedly to the right.

The initials, though hard to distinguish, save time. And before Americans poke fun at this love of initials, we might consider our own war set-up.

The splinters in the ladder of success won't bother you unless you're sliding down.

Those Gray Hairs

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

IT ISN'T the young who need to be instructed in the facts of life. They learn them entirely too soon as it is, and they are taught by the best of all sex educators, Mother Nature.

It is the adults who can't seem to get the facts of life straight. My mail invariably contains five

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

letters a day with some variant on the question: "What endocrine product should I use to keep my hair from turning gray?"

Let us get the record clear. Nobody on earth knows why hair turns gray. Nobody on earth knows just what happens to hair when it turns gray. Nobody who now lives, or ever lived, succeeded in turning hair from gray back to its original color, leastwise by any process that could not be suspected when in a strong light, preferably sunlight.

An Authoritative Quotation
To support my claims I quote, as politicians say, from the largest and most authoritative book on the skin and its appendages in my library. It has quite an exhaustive chapter on gray hair. I quote it in full:

"Graying of the hair (canities) although quite common is an unexplained phenomenon."

There is no endocrine product, androgen, fungicide, sterone, ketone, vitamin, coal tar product, specific sulfonamide, penicillate, electric machine, no form of psychotherapy, mind cure, diathermy, bathing, exercise, prayer, incantation, witch doctor, soother, massage, there is no barber, Indian medicine man, traveling salesman or insurance agent who can turn your hair back to its original color if you begin to gray.

A dye, or a rinse, will do it, and there I rest my case. That is almost all I have to tell my little class of adults in the facts of life. Or almost all.

There is one practical thing to be said. If you could turn your hair from gray back to its original color, or to some other fancy color, you would not gain any new friends. Your husband or your wife might still love you and your children; maybe your grandchildren, if they can keep from laughing. But nobody that you have just met is going to be attracted to you. In fact, just the opposite. They will regard you with suspicion. Your hair will not match your face or your memory.

A Lonely Man

If Ponce de Leon had succeeded in his quest, and had returned to Spain, he would have been the loneliest man in Europe. Even in modern Florida he wouldn't have made any friends except among the queeros.

Since we are close to the celebration of the most beloved of all saints, it might be worth while to point out that Santa Claus is endeared in our hearts largely because of his gray hair. And I never heard anybody, except Monty Wooley himself, wish his beard would turn brown. In fact, rumor hath it that certain sinister forces in Hollywood who have some money invested in the motion picture industry have employed a man who bears a strong resemblance to Robert Benchley to follow Wooley around and prevent him from going into beauty parlors that make a specialty of dying hair.

It would be a great tragedy to Santa Claus and Monty Wooley and the public generally if by some rare chance their hair and beards were to turn back to black or brown.

THANKSGIVING TO CHRISTMAS

TODAY—I CORINTHIANS 15, A LETTER OF ST. PAUL

A Selection

Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

ROMANTIC MASQUERADE

SYNOPSIS

Daphne Willoughby had thrilled North Wintridge when she eloped at 17 with Carlo Abruzzi, a concert violinist. For eight years, until his death, she lived abroad. Letters from her to Kate Denison and other friends back home were masterpieces of romantic imagination. After Carlo's death, Daphne worked for four years with Corinne Hollis, New York decorator. Then she returned, after an absence of twelve years, to the old home town where many welcomed her as a glamorous personality. She remodeled the house willed her by a cousin and is determined not to remarry. She has hired a part-time gardener called "Steve." A vivacious subbed, "Buff" Turner, and the latter's beau, Perry Dawson, are helping Daphne and "Steve" with the gardening. One day Corinne Hollis arrives with an auto-load of gay spirits from the Big City, including shrill Goggo, lively Lorette, raucous Reggie, puffing Potts and Alan Pembroke, architect and Daphne's ardent suitor. They take the premises by storm.

CHAPTER EIGHT

"Holy cat! What goes on here?" Buff had come up the stairs in her tennis shoes without making any noise. "I leave our peaceful sylvan retreat and come back to find Town and Country rampant, on a fling all over our newly spaded grounds."

Daphne grinned mischievously. "Into each life a little rain must fall. At least that's what I'm counting on. Pray for a hopping thunder-storm. Then come down and meet 'em. The one in the lynx and diamonds is Corinne Hollis, my ex-employer. The rest of them, like Corinne, are merely city children out to play in the country."

"And you're it," Buff commented. "Maybe they'll all pass out after lunch and we can finish our job."

"Maybe they'll leave right after lunch anyway," Daphne said hopefully.

The hope was vain. There wasn't a cloud in the blue serenity. Indeed it was only the sky which was serene, once the picnicers had oriented themselves. They said they loved the country, and behaved like people who had never been let loose to seize its pleasures. Someone found an old croquet set in the cellar and, for the rest of the afternoon, they smashed balls into all the wrong places, tripped happily over wickets, tramped over seeded ground, and departed suddenly at six, as noisily as they arrived, threatening—there was no other word for it—to come again very soon.

Alan Pembroke hung back. "I'll be seeing you sooner than you expect," he promised.

It was beautifully calm after they'd gone. Buff had given up around 4 p.m., and so Daphne was alone. She picked up her knitting and went out to sit on the back porch. This was the hour of the day that she liked best, when the western sky filled the solitary landscape with a rosy glow.

There was none to disturb her until some sixth sense—an awareness of the presence of another person drew her eyes up from the work in her hand, and she saw that Steve Bronner was sitting on the stone fence, smoking, as he had been that first day, his handsome setter at his feet. He was so still she would not have been aware of him unless . . . unless he had willed her to look up.

Her eyes fastened on him, and he got off the fence, coming toward her with a leisurely gait, the setter loping at his heels.

"The petunias are all in. I put the tomato plants in the west field where they'll get plenty of sunlight."

"That's good," Daphne said, clicking her needles fast. "Sit down, Steve. I want to talk to you about the vegetable garden."

They talked about peas, beans, and radishes.

"I'm sorry those people did so much damage, tramping over things. You worked so hard on the grounds. I didn't know they were coming, or I . . ." She broke off, belatedly aware that she had no need to explain anything to him.

"They seemed to have had a good time—in their way," Steve responded dryly.

The faint note of contempt in his voice made her resentful, and she remarked crisply, "You sound disapproving."

"And why not?" he queried slowly, putting a match to his pipe that had gone out, fixing his gaze on the opposite hill. "Healthy, clean fun . . . that's one thing. Frantic, irresponsible pursuit of pleasure, for pleasure's sake . . . that's another. I know both kinds. But why go on moralizing?"

Daphne shrugged. "After all, you don't know those people. They play hard, but some of them have serious pursuits, too. Mrs. Hollis is a brilliant decorator. Twenty years ago she was a bundle girl in a department store. Today she owns a very profitable business. And Mr. Pembroke is an able architect. People don't have to do manual labor to be real persons. As long as they have a purpose in life—"

"And you have a purpose, too?" Steve asked quietly.

"Yes," she said solemnly, meeting his eyes. "I hardly need to go into it."

"Hardly," he murmured.

"I'm making a home for myself."

"A home for yourself." There was the nearest emphasis on his last word, and she felt it for criticism.

Folks of Movieland Are Going Horsey

By FRANK ECK

NEW YORK — The way Hollywood is going horsey almost makes you feel as though many of our coming pictures will be produced at the racetracks. You don't have to be a movie magnate or an actor to own race horses, but it helps these days.

Louis B. Mayer, 58-year-old producer whose salary earnings of $1,139,922 led the nation for the 1943 fiscal year, has the outstanding horse among the movie set.

Mayer's claim to turf fame is Whirlabout, 3-year-old daughter of Pompey-Dustwhirl, "picked up" for $25,000 at the close of 1943. Whirlabout earned $79,005 this year in taking eight of 15 starts and ran her total to $106,765.

If there had been no Twilight Tear this season, Whirlabout would have been regarded as the year's top 3-year-old filly.

Paperboy, winner of two $50,000 races during the year and owned by producers Harry M. Warner and Mervyn LeRoy, ranks second among Hollywood-owned steeds. Running in the colors of W-L Ranch—named after Warner Lewis LeRoy, Warner's 9-year-old grandson, Paperboy copped the Saratoga Handicap and Narragansett Special.

Paperboy, 6-year-old gelded son of Papyrus-Bright Folly, was acquired for $4,500 four years ago. He was bred in Ireland and brought to this country by a Canadian, Maj. Austin C. Taylor. Ariel Lad is another movie horse that has taken his share of stake races. Ariel Lad, owned by the Myron Selznick estate, beat the sprint champion, True North, in the Gideon Putnam Handicap and also won Belmont's Fall Highweight 'cap.

Among the actors, Don Ameche has more than a fair chance to turn up with a good 3-year-old for 1945 in Sir Bim, juvenile son of Bimelech-Alegria, by Bubbling Over. Sir Bim, winner of five lengths of two Chicago sprints during the summer, finished in the money in his first six starts, ran dismally in his next four but returned to the winner's circle at Churchill Downs recently.

Fred Astaire has two consistent nags in Triplegate and Fag, and Nan Gray, wife of Jockey Jack Westrope, has a fair stable.

Bing Crosby's horses? "They're still running," says Bob Hope.

STEEL PRODUCTION HALVED IN GERMANY

Bombings, Sabotage Slash Output, 'Tis Said

NEW YORK, DEC. 18—(P)—Germany's ability to make steel—the backbone of war—has been cut nearly in half by territorial losses, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated today.

Bombings, plus sabotage, may have cut another 20 percent from her productive ability, the trade organization said in its publication Steel Facts.

"At the crest of German power, close to 60,000,000 tons of steel capacity was available in Axis Europe, of which perhaps as much as 22,000,000 tons were in Germany itself," the reports said.

"Since then, through the loss of most of Italy, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Balkans and Hungary, the amount of steel capacity available to Germany has probably decreased to not more than 36,000,000 tons."

HOLLYWOOD — The most successful new writer—and talker—in town is Milton Holmes. This may surprise his old high school in Syracuse, N. Y., where he narrowly averted an impasse with his English course.

In three times at bat, Holmes' average in the local literary big league is 1000. He has written three stories and sold three, all at fancy prices. You may have seen the first of these, "Mr. Lucky" with Cary Grant.

Holmes was running a Beverly Hills tennis club patronized by the elite of Hollywood when he took up writing. He worked four months, 16 hours a day, to finish "Mr. Lucky." One of his tennis pals was Bill Wilder, writer and director. Wilder read, criticized and underwrote the novice, Holmes turned over to Wilder every ten pages he wrote, and Billy advanced him $75 or $100 to see him through the next ten. He owed Wilder $875 when the story was finished, and Wilder was the first creditor to be paid when "Mr. Lucky" sold.

Cary Grant was another tennis pal. Since Milton had written the story with Cary in mind, he was the first person to be given the script. Grant took it to RKO, made a sales talk, sold it for $30,000. Then Milton collected another $5,000 for doing the screen play.

His second sale was even less orthodox. He called on Buddy DeSylva to talk about "Salty O'Rourke." DeSylva asked him to leave the manuscript. "I can't," said Holmes. "It's not written yet, but I'll tell it to you. How much time can you give me?"

"Twenty minutes," said DeSylva.

Not long enough, said Holmes. DeSylva offered 30.

"Still not enough," said Holmes. "How about this? I'll start telling my story and as soon as you get bored you say so and I'll stop—and no hard feelings."

He talked for 95 minutes without interruption. "Salty," a racetrack gambling tale, is now in work with Alan Ladd starring. His third story, "Torch Song," also went to Paramount—"but there's nothing interesting to report in this one," he says. "It took them only three minutes to buy it."

In his writing so far Holmes has followed that good rule for writers, dealing with subjects he knows first hand: gambling, horses, show people. He left Syracuse at 17 to become an actor, but failed to dent Broadway. In Hollywood he became an extra, even won a stock contract, but his extracurricular activities were more interesting and—in the long run—more profitable.

He got acquainted with some big-time gamblers (used to place track bets for some who didn't like to appear personally at the pari-mutuel windows) and once had a job on the old gambling ship Rex when it operated offshore from Santa Monica. With this background as source book, he's only beginning to tap it for his yarns.

Newly-Weds Are Guests of Honor at Potluck Supper

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. King (nee Freida Fultz) were honored at a potluck supper and miscellaneous show held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred LeBeau and attended by approximately forty-five friends and relatives of the newly-weds.

Several small tables placed informally about the home seated the guests when a bountiful potluck supper was served. Various entertaining games and contests were enjoyed, after which Mrs. King was invited to the dining room where a large array of lovely gifts were arranged on the table.

Centering the table was an unusual and artistic scene—in miniature, depicting the bride and her bridesmaids entering the church which was decorated with flowers and ribbons. Mrs. King graciously thanked each guest for their gifts and informal visiting concluded the evening's pleasures.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Fultz and daughter, Mary Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight King, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Fry and daughter, Anna Lee; Mrs. Lela Fry; Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Earl King; Mr. and Mrs. Max King; Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Groff and daughter, Gail Ann; Mrs. Jane Hopkins; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hockman; Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Grim; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt and Billy Anschutz; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knisley; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Knisley; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Trimble; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shobe and niece, Patsy Lou; Mr. Clark Thompson; Miss Norma Jean West; Mr. and Mrs. Freddie LeBeau, the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Fred LeBeau.

Group of Friends Exchange Gifts at Potluck Supper

A brightly-lighted Christmas tree graced the living room when Mrs. Wilbur Mosbacher entertained at her home with an informal Christmas party for a number of friends who assembled early in the evening for a potluck supper.

One large table, nicely decorated with Christmas suggestions, seated the guests who thoroughly enjoyed the informal dinner hour. The gifts were exchanged beneath the Christmas tree, and an informal evening progressed until a late hour.

Those present were Mrs. Walter Reser, Mrs. Carl Murphy, Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mrs. Cyril Sollars, Mrs. Elwood Pickens, Mrs. Frank Kearney, Mrs. Paul Haines and Mrs. Earl Dunaway.

Birthday Dinner Served Sunday

Mrs. Chloe C. Ashley was agreeably surprised Sunday evening when her daughter, Mrs. Charles M. McCoy, entertained at their home on East Market Street with a gala surprise dinner which observed Mrs. Ashley's birthday.

Those seated with the hostess and honor guest were Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, daughters, Jane and Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. McCoy and daughter, Mrs. Charles Hall.

A bountiful two-course meal was served at one long table which was centered with a pink and white iced birthday cake, gift of the hostess to Mrs. Ashley.

The dinner hour was one of prolonged gaiety for all, and informal visiting rounded out the pleasures of the evening.

Eleanor Paul Is Sunday Bride of Lt. Donald Ault

On Sunday afternoon, December seventeenth, at four-thirty o'clock, Eleanor Paul, daughter of Mrs. Billie E. Paul, 614 Broadway, this city, became the bride of Lt. Donald E. Ault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ault, of near this city.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Allison McHenry, in the First Baptist Church at Casper, Wyoming, in the presence of members of the B-24 crew of which Lt. Ault is pilot at Casper. Also in attendance was the bride's mother, Mrs. Paul, who accompanied her daughter to Wyoming last week.

The pretty and personable bride of striking brunette coloring, chose a frock of a complimentary shade of pale aqua wool with rhinestone trim. She had black accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds.

Attending the bridegroom was his best friend, Lt. Joseph Carter. Mrs. Paul chose an ensemble of aqua and had a corsage of Talisman roses.

The new Mrs. Ault will remain in Casper, Wyoming, with her husband, who is first pilot aboard a B-24 Liberator at Casper Army Air Field. He is a graduate of Washington High School in 1940 and was produce manager at Albers' Super Market in this city, prior to enlisting in the air corps.

Christmas carols were sung and a playlet entitled "The Christmas Message," by a cast composed of Mrs. John G. Jordan as leader, Mrs. Clinton Long, first speaker, Mrs. Josephine Batson, second speaker, Mrs. Loren Perry, third speaker and Mrs. Zona McKay as fourth speaker, was much enjoyed by all.

During the social hour that followed the gift exchange was conducted beneath a beautifully lighted Christmas tree. The remainder of the evening was spent in visiting.

API Cagers Resume Play Tuesday Night Markets and Finance

All set to resume their weekly basketball schedule after being snowed out last week, the two API-sponsored community independent teams—the Reds and the Blues—today were all steamed up and ready for the double feature they will put on in the high school gym Tuesday night.

—Spying— On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The National Football League may not be seriously worried about being tossed out of baseball parks in September—those games were generally exhibitions, anyway—but it is taking a determined stand on proposed rival leagues. The National League won't accept any circuit as an affiliate, says Publisher George Strickler, unless that league proves its financial stability and recognizes Elmer Layden as "commissioner of football." Even then it would have to prove its right to a "major league" rating, which would be difficult under those circumstances. National Leaguers point out that some of the strong backers of clubs in the new leagues were turned down by the established circuit, which is looking for a twelfth club.

Today's Guest Star Kenneth Jones, Peoria, Ill., Journal-Transcript: "When he informed sports scribes that he was taking every possible precaution to discourage gambling in the Garden, Ned Irish said Garden officials have a list of 60 'undesirables' who will be barred from the arena—even for dog shows. That's really taking the wag out of wagering, isn't it?"

Monday Matinee Note to local grid fans: Don't be suckers again. Saturday's Randolph Field-Second Air Force tussle drew 8,356 customers—and it looked like a liberal crowd. Yesterday's pro playoff drew 46,016, including 4,563 service men. The service game probably was the better of the two, despite weather conditions. The Army Air Forces Air Society didn't get much dough out of the football, but it may make up some by cutting in on Gunder Haegg's winter track tour. Only two reporters covered the recent A. A. U. convention at Atlantic City and at the same place and time eleven were on hand for a national bridge tournament. Who said low bridge?

Service Department John Rihlhuoma, who has just finished navy boot training at Sampson, N. J., has been granted time off to play in the Eastern Junior Indoor Tennis next week. For the past two years Milo Theodoroscu, the Rumanian boxer, has sent birthday greetings to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Each time the general has returned thanks. Just proves Eisenhower is quite a guy if he can spell "to the rescue's" name.

Sam Snead Winner RICHMOND, Calif., Dec. 18.—(P)—Slammin' Sam Snead was back in the winners circle again today. $1600 more in war bonds in his pocket, and the Richmond Open championship to his credit. He won the 72-hole event yesterday with a four round total of 278, six strokes under par.

Snead put together rounds of 70-69-69-70 to win the Richmond top prize. Finishing a stroke behind Snead yesterday was slender Charles Congdon, of Tacoma, Wash., with 70-62-67-70—279.

NO UPSETS IN BOWLING LOOP LIST

Incompleted schedules in the API Women and Ladies' City League keep the standings from being up to date this week, but even with that obstacle, it is fairly clear that no major upsets among league leaders went on record last week. The Tappets kept their firm hold on the API Men's League crown, although the Engineers crowded the Office boys into a tie for second place. Inspection nudged Production Control down a notch and tied up with the Foremen for third place. In the Ladies' City League, Fayette Fruit Market edged up into a second place tie with the Lloyd's Market outfit. The Business and Professional Women and Light's Dairymaids also were knotted for fifth place. No changes were made in the API Women's League and only one in the Men's Industrial League—a Pennington-Rings tie for fifth place.

New Holland Wins 29-16 Cage Game From Clarksburg

New Holland basketballers romped through an easy victory over a Clarksburg quintet Saturday night. Winning 29-16, the New Holland outfit was in the lead all the way through, throwing up an almost impenetrable defense and at the same time scoring plenty of buckets without much real trouble.

Pearce of New Holland led the victor's scoring parade with 12 points to his credit. It was clear that the New Holland defense was Waterloo to the Clarksburg cagers—they scored only five field goals in all four periods. In the reserve contest, Clarksburg gave New Holland a run for its money before taking the little end of an 18-16 score. The New Holland reserves won. Earl Miller, Frankfurt coach, was the referee. New Holland's next game is with Walnut township on the Walnut floor.

"We propose to establish a central scouting system, and the scouts will select players and distribute them to the various teams in the league with the main thought of keeping an even balance of power among the teams," League President Harold "Red" Grange declared at an organization meeting here yesterday.

MORE HONORS ARE HEAPED ON LES HORVATH

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18.—(P)—Les Horvath has won another football trophy. The latest honor handed Ohio State's All-America back is his selection by coaches and officials as the Western Conference's most valuable player of 1944. He'll receive a silver trophy from the Chicago Tribune at one of Ohio State's home basketball games this winter.

Horvath had been named on just about every "all" team that has come out and he won the Heisman award, given annually the game that was cancelled. The car was wrecked, but none of the players was seriously hurt—just some cuts and a few bruises. Newman said "they're all O. K. now... all except the automobile."

BYRON NELSON, GOLFER, ATHLETE-OF-THE-YEAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(P)—Byron Nelson, who averaged less than 70 strokes for 78 rounds of big time tournament golf, is 1944's athlete-of-the-year. Seventy-nine sports writers throughout the country, who scattered their affections on 40 different athletes, named him as the successor to Gunder Haegg, Sweden's miller, who was last year's winner. Nelson's smooth-as-silk performance on the fairways brought him more than $45,000 in war-bond prizes as well as 16 first place votes in the present tabulations. The Toledo shot-maker, who recently resigned his post to join an umbrella firm, finished with 75 points, only five ahead of Martin (Slats) Marion, shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, recently named the most valuable player in the National Baseball League.

to the nation's outstanding player. Players on each team in the Western Conference chose their most valuable player and the coaches and officials then selected the best from that list. Horvath received 15 of 20 first place votes in the final balloting to win by a wide margin over John Tavenner, Indiana center, also a native Ohioan.

Horvath is the third Ohio State player to receive the Tribune Trophy in the 21 years it has been given. The others were Wesley Fesler in 1930 and Jack Graf in 1941. Players in the final balloting were Horvath; Tavenner; Don Lund, Michigan fullback; Claude Young, Illinois halfback; Robert Snyder, Iowa center; John Lundquist, Minnesota back; Max Morris, Northwestern end; Boris Dimancheff, Purdue back; and Clarence Esser, Wisconsin tackle.

PACKERS WIN PRO GRID TITLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(P)—After a lapse of five years the Green Bay Packers regained the championship of the National Professional Football League by trampling the New York Giants, 14 to 7, before 46,016 at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

A different team from the one that took a 24-0 pasting from the Giants on the same field a month ago the Packers struck for two second period touchdowns, yielded a score in the last quarter and then thwarted the Giants' desperate attempts to tie in the closing minutes. Minus the services of Bill Paschal, their star ground gainer who participated in only four plays because of an ankle injury, the Giants gained only 70 yards from rushing, most in the second half, to 162 for the Packers.

Fullback Ted Fritsch, who scored both Green Bay touchdowns, pounded out most of the Gross receipts were $146,205.15 with the players pool aggregating $31,466.51. The victorious Packers, beaten only by the Giants and the Chicago Bears, deposited champions, during the 10-game league season, received $11,896.64 with $27,938.91 going to the Giants.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A steady undertone developed in grain markets in late trading today when wheat regained some of its early losses and most of the remainder of the futures list turned fractionally higher. The trade, dulled in several months, was so light small orders affected prices. Purchases by a Commission House with elevator connections caused the December wheat contract to rally. Corn turned firm supported by Commission House buying. There was no pressure of offerings and cash prices were steady to slightly higher than those offered Saturday.

At the close wheat was 1 1/2 higher, 5 1/2 lower than Saturday's finish, December $1.68 1/2. Corn was up 1/4 to 1/2, December $1.14 1/2. Oats were off 1/4 to 1/2, December 70. Rye was unchanged to 1/4 higher, December $1.11 1/2. Barley was up 1/4 to 1/2, December $1.13 1/2.

plugging on its left flank near Bitche where four main Maginot forts—Simershof, Schiesseck, Otterbier and Grand Heukirkel, each surrounded by six to 11 satellite forts after the manner of the Metz defenses—blocked the way.

One of the series of forts, Frunberg, had been taken. To the south of Strasbourg, in the Alsace plain, the Germans who had reinforced their bridgehead on the west side of the Rhine, recaptured Mittelweh and Benwirh northwest of Colmar and 13 miles from the Rhine; Dieboldheim, east of Selestat and a mile from the Rhine, and Mount Hohenneck in the Schlucht Pass.

Eleven hundred heavy bombers and fighters raced from Britain to the flaming American First Army battlefront today and smashed three German railheads supplying the German counter-offensive. Five hundred American Flying Fortresses dumped 2,000 tons of bombs on Cologne, Coblenz and Mainz despite solid clouds which blanketed them from view.

The clouds robbed the fighter escort of 600 Mustangs of a chance to mix it with German fighters. The daylight blows followed a night pummeling of Munich, Ulm and Duisburg by 1,300 British heavy bombers, 17 of which were lost. In Italy, Eighth Army troops were clearing out isolated pockets of resistance in Faenza, stronghold on the highway leading from Rimini to Bologna. The Eighth Army held a line along the Senio

A 10-mile-long German column was blasted by Allied fighter-bombers in the Neunkirchen area, 10 miles northeast of Saarbrücken. In the Alsace plain German counterattacks rolled over three villages in the Colmar and Selestat areas. Shrewdly timed when the Americans were drawn up at the Roer and presumably preparing to cross that barrier toward Cologne and the Rhine, von Rundstedt's blow was aimed at the Ardennes forest, path of German conquest in 1940.

A proclamation to his troops told them their "hour has struck" and they must "achieve the superhuman for our Fatherland and our Fuehrer." Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army at length had scored a notable victory by smashing through the primary Siegfried line defenses at Dillingen, three miles north of Saarbrücken. Digging deeper into the Siegfried line defenses farther back, the Third Army's 90th Division pushed forward another 300 yards to the eastern edge of Dillingen. The 7th Army was finding hard Leadings were relatively quiet throughout but few comebacks were in evidence near the fourth hour. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

EUGENE L. SMITH RENT EXAMINER FOR THIS AREA

Appointment Is Announced
Monday by District Rent
Executive of Columbus

Announcement was made Monday by Edward F. Wagner, district rent executive under the federal OPA, that Eugene L. Smith has been appointed area rent examiner for Fayette County, effective December 26.

The position to which Smith has been named is under civil service, the annual salary being $3800. The official appointment was made known here when Albert G. Giles, chief district rent attorney, came to this city Monday.

Smith's appointment is being well received by the public here because of his reputation for business ability, experience and sound judgment.

The date of the appointment was set for December 26 in order to give Smith time to clean up private work in which he has been engaged. Just recently he opened an accounting and tax service office on the second floor of the Wilson Hardware building, corner Court and Hinde streets. Immediately upon taking office he will go to the district office in Columbus for a week or 10 days where he will undergo an intensive and comprehensive training program before taking up the full responsibilities of the new position here. A secretary will be appointed to assist the rent examiner, but this appointment has not yet been made.

It was announced that Smith's new position will give him complete charge of the local rent examiner's office which for the present is in the rear of the War Price and Rationing office in the Wilson building.

It will be his duty to process all petitions for adjustment of rents of dwelling units both as to increase or decrease in amounts. All complaints will be processed by him in cooperation with the rent attorney of the district office at Columbus. The new rent examiner's recommendations on any adjustments are sent to the district office for approval and in case any appeal is made by a landlord over any decrease ordered, such appeal is carried to the regional office in Cleveland for final decision.

Louis Halley of the Columbus district office, is here for the present assisting in setting up the local area office.

Smith, the new appointee, is a graduate of the Washington High School of the class of 1928 and started employment the day after graduation with the firm of W. W. Wilson & Son as bookkeeper. In September of the following year he accepted a position as assistant traffic manager for the Baker Wood Preserving Co. and in September of 1930 was engaged as auditor and assistant manager by W. W. Wilson and Son. He continued with this firm, which later became known as Wilson's Hardware, with increasing responsibilities which gave him a broad knowledge of all branches of this expanding business including construction work as well as accounting, until September, 1944 when he decided to enter business for himself and set up his own office.

Smith is identified with the Presbyterian Church of this city and is a member of the Lions Club and Eagles Lodge. He has been a member of the price panel of the local War Price and Rationing Board since its formation, is a member of the board of directors of the YMCA and was chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the promotion and carrying through of the new city high school building program in 1938. He has been active in local athletic circles and was secretary of the PTA Council of the Washington city schools in 1939 and 1940. He also has been active in civic matters and is considered one of the leading young business men of the community.

AUDIENCE HEARS SPECIAL MUSIC SUNDAY EVENING

Christmas Program Given
At Grace Church by Choir of Thirty

One of the loveliest Christmas musical programs given in the city in recent years was that presented at Grace Methodist Church, Sunday at 7:30 P. M., by the choir of 30 voices, under the very capable direction of Loren E. Wilson, one of the best choral directors in this part of Ohio.

The program consisted of excerpts from Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah," carols from various nations, and the ever beautiful "Silent Night, Holy Night," still more beautiful by the descent by Miss Kirk, Mrs. Enslin and Mrs. Flint.

The splendid directing of Loren E. Wilson was manifest from the beginning of the special program, with Handel's anthem "And the Glory of the Lord," to the end of Handel's magnificent "Hallelujah Chorus," during which the audience, in accordance with the usual custom, stood in reverence as the inspiring chorus was sung.

The number of male voices in the chorus had been augmented and added materially to the power of the large chorus.

Soloists for the evening were Mrs. Louise Enslin, Miss Janet Kirk, Miss Ellen Buchanan, and Richard Rankin, all of whom sang beautifully.

Carols of various nations included: "Father Christmas," Russian; "That Wonderful Christmas Night," Portuguese; "The Carol of the Cattleman," Czechoslovakian and "The Trees Do Moan," carol of the Mountain Whites.

For the prelude Miss Marian Christopher, who was at the organ throughout the program, played "The Shepherds Carol," and the organ postlude was "Variations of an Ancient Polish Carol."

All in all the musical program was one of exceptional beauty and its presentation struck a responsive chord in the hearts of everyone in the large audience.

$725,363 BOND TOTAL OFFICIAL REPORT FOR WCH

Women's Organizations Sell
$48,650 Worth of Bonds
In Sixth War Loan

Latest reports from the Federal Reserve Bank give Fayette County credit for $725,363.25 on its $858,000 Sixth War Loan quota, F. E. Hill, chairman of the War Finance Committee here, said today.

The report is based on the close of business Friday. The drive actually ended Saturday at the close of business, so one more full day's sales are yet to be included in the total.

In addition, all E, F and G bonds and C notes which are sold the rest of the month will count on the quota.

The amount recorded officially puts Fayette County 17th among 22 counties in percent of total quota raised and 14th on E bond quota met. Percentages are 81.2 on total and 55.2 on E bonds.

Women's Activities

While one more report is expected to come in, women's organizations were responsible for the sale of $48,650 worth of bonds during this drive, Mrs. Donald Lange, chairman, said.

The baby bond booths in the Morris Store and in Craig's netted $1,000 in bond sales, Mrs. Lange said. She complimented Miss Helen Slavens, Ora M. Middleton and the women who tended the bond booths for the cooperation during the drive. Miss Ann Patton was associated chairman.

Referring to the contest among women's organizations in selling bonds, Mrs. Lange said no chairman need report to her until the end of the month when she requests a full report of all sales since November 1 and through December 31.

Club ratings now are Business and Professional Women, first, $30,400; Child Conservation League second with $6,600; Phi Beta Psi third with $4,650 and Graduate fourth with $2,425.

R. S. SANDERSON STORE ROBBED OVER WEEK END

Owner Finds Dream During the Night Reality When He Enters Store

R. S. Sanderson, owner of Sanderson's Harness and notion store on East Court Street, is now inclined to believe in dreams.

Sunday night he dreamed that someone had entered his store and burglarized it.

"I hope I don't find that dream to be true when I get to the store," he told his wife on leaving Monday morning.

When he reached his store he found that sometime over the weekend, presumably Sunday night, someone had climbed to the room of a lean-to adjoining his store, removed a glass from a rear window, and had robbed his safe and cash register of about $100 in currency and change.

Several War Bonds that were kept in the safe had been left on a bench.

The safe had not been locked, and tracks made about the point of entrance indicated that one man committed the crime, and that he had very sizeable feet.

Screens had also been removed from the Barchet building at the back, but apparently the burglar had given up the second robbery as being too risky.

Chief Vaiden Long was notified of the burglary as soon as Sanderson discovered the crime, and made a careful check of the premises, and picked up all possible evidence that might aid in arrest and punishment of the offender.

The burglar left by a rear door and apparently had taken his time in obtaining the money from the safe and cash register.
